hoping to adopt OVERVIEW

Angel Adoption has been helping families across the country adopt a baby for more than 25 years now. We are an adoption advertising and marketing service helping to connect the right adoptive parents with caring expectant mothers who want their children raised in a safe, loving family.

The company was founded in 1998 by two adoptive mothers, Carolyn Walker and Sharon Ahmann, close friends who were writing a book about their own personal adoption experiences. As Carolyn and Sharon worked to gather stories for their publication, adoptive parents and expectant mothers began to contact them with questions about the adoption process. Within months, Angel Adoption was born, and more than 25 years later, we are proud to say that we have successfully assisted with more than 2,800 adoptions!

Our Mission Statement

At Angel Adoption, we help prospective birthmothers and adopting parents across the United States find one another and guide them through their adoption journey.

We specialize in providing unparalleled exposure for prospective adoptive parents, allowing expectant mothers to find and connect with them. We are also available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week to answer phone calls, text messages, live chats, and emails from expectant mothers, helping them make the decision that is best for them, guiding them through the adoption process, and ensuring they are supported post-adoption.

A birthmother-centered company, our philosophy is based on caring and consideration for them during this fragile time. It is our privilege to guide the courageous women who choose adoption to families who opened their hearts to adoption. We believe every birthmother is an angel who swoops in and delivers a miracle, and that's why we named our company after them.

The Basics of the Adoption Tax Credit

By: Michelle M. Hughes

How much is the adoption tax credit, and who qualifies?

The adoption tax credit is available for non-related adoptions. The maximum credit is $16,810 per child. Other features of the credit include (a) the ability to carry the credit forward for up to five years in order to use it up, (b) the ability to claim a flat credit (without the need to show actual expenses) for the adoption of a special needs child, and (c) the ability to claim the credit in the case of a failed adoption attempt. To learn more visit this link which takes you to the IRS website. <http://www.irs.gov/taxtopics/tc607.html>

The credit is applicable for "Adoption Expenses," so please keep receipts and/or cancelled checks for any fees paid to your attorney(s), adoption agency(s), court approved expenses or other adoption related expenses. Please consult your tax accountant for further details.

What is the difference between a credit and a deduction?

A credit is an amount that can be deducted directly from the taxes that you owe. It means you can get reimbursed dollar for dollar, unlike a deduction, provided you qualify.

What if the adoption never finalizes? (Failed Adoption)

Adoptive parents can take the credit even if the adoption does not finalize in a domestic adoption. However, the rules are different for a failed adoption. First you will want a letter from the agency or lawyer documenting the failed adoption including the birthmother's name and the amount of money lost in payments to the agency or attorney, specific to that birthmother. The credit is to be taken the year after the expenses were incurred.

How does it work with employer reimbursements for adoptions?

The money claimed in an employer reimbursement must be different than the money claimed for the adoption tax credit.

Is the adoption tax credit the same as the child tax credit?

No. This credit is separate and apart from the child tax credit.

General Information

Angel Adoption, Inc. was created by Carolyn Walker and Sharon Ahmann in 1998 to help build families through adoption. Carolyn and Sharon are the directors of Angel Adoption; they are adoption professionals as well as adoptive mothers.

The service is very basic. It consists of a fee to the adoptive families who are interested in adopting. The fee is based on two full years of advertising, answering expectant mother phone calls 24 hours a day, help in designing a personal profile and the presentation of that profile to the expectant parents, for 24 months or until the families are connected in a successful adoption. This is a “cooperative” advertising fee, wherein prospective birthmothers have 24-hour access to our coordinators via phone, text, email, and live chat.

We will direct you to the agency we work with if you do not have a home study. Once you are connected with an expectant mother, we give you the name of a professional in that state to work with her. We provide you with questions to ask an expectant mother and what “red flags” to watch for. We allow the adoptive parents the option to decline an expectant mother situation at any time, within the two-year period.

The expectant mother is presented with profiles from our contracted families. She then makes a decision on the adoptive family from those resumes. The family would then speak with the expectant mother and meet in person, if possible. Once an expectant mother has chosen your profile, you will be referred to an attorney or social worker that you will need to hire in the expectant mother's state. It is not part of our service to become involved in either the legal work or the social work aspect of the adoption. If the adoption plan goes awry, due to the expectant mother changing her mind or health problems with the child, we continue our advertising efforts for the balance of the contract at no additional charge.

Being able to fulfill our dreams of becoming adoptive parents and creating the family we always wanted is priceless. Our son is the greatest blessing.

frequently asked questions

Who can apply to Angel Adoption?

Angel Adoption has fewer restrictions than an adoption agency. We have a 25 year age requirement, but we have no requirements or restrictions based on religion, marital status, sexual orientation, race, ethnicity, or gender identity. Families with biological or other adopted children are also welcome to apply. The choice of adoptive families is made by the expectant mother, so our families with children do as well as our families without children. We also work with families who are “signed up” with an adoption agency/professional and have not had any luck yet. Please remember we review all applications to determine if we are able to help you..

How do we get into Angel Adoption’s program?

All families must schedule a free informational meeting. We require the meeting to be either a phone meeting or an in person meeting depending on your geographic location.

Is Angel Adoption a licensed agency?

Angel Adoption is a marketing and advertising organization working under the supervision of Lutheran Child and Family Services, a licensed agency.

How do you find your expectant mothers?

Our dedicated marketing team is constantly working hard to reach as many potential birthmothers as possible. Our online strategies include a combination of Search Engine Optimization (SEO), Social Media Optimization (SMO), Pay Per Click Advertising (PPC), and Content Marketing. Our offline marketing strategies include networking with adoption attorneys, social workers, physicians, pregnancy crisis centers, hospitals, churches, schools, adoption agencies, and other organizations that work with expectant mothers.

What background and medical information will I receive on the expectant mother?

The social worker will have the expectant mother fill out medical forms and sign a release allowing the agency access to her medical records. The legal representative we refer you to is responsible for informing you of your legal rights and risks.

Can we reach you after hours and on the weekends?

Angel Adoption is unique in that we provide our contracted families with a number of ways to contact us. We work all holidays to take calls from expectant mothers; this is a time when most other organizations are closed. We strive to be consistently available for emergencies and expectant mother calls on the weekends and evenings. This can be very important if your expectant mother goes into labor after hours.
